HUGE REAL ESTATE PLAN SET

Kiwanis Notes March 1960 Meetings

21 regular members attended, and four guests present. Lyle Winkler, owner of the lapidary in the Valley: August Johnson of the Carmel Red Cross, Capt. Francis Simmons of Riverside club, now in transfer to the Valley Club, and Warren O. Wicham guest of Herb Brownell.

Ed Graham suggested that the Kiwanis sponsor a candidate for the Miss California, and possibly go on to the Miss America event. Motion to be considered.

Mr. Johnson presented the Red Cross program for the year, stating that the goal is set at $28,600, with $3,700 already pledged. Dr. Marcucci is Valley chairman.

President Lou Allaire reported on Boy Scout activities, and other projects to be undertaken.

Bill Mallek reported on the vocational program and the expansion of the school program.

Owen Dibbern, agriculture and conservation report, river clearance project with Sterling Mummert.

Dr. Ed Marcucci, public and business affairs, attending area and local planning commission meetings.

Dr. C. W. van Horn, church committee, plans for a nice placard to denote churches and meeting times.

Paul Porter, interclub relations. C. V. Kiwanis completed two inter-clubs in February.

Jerry Kelly, education committee, two members inducted in February. Hope for two in March.

Lyle Winkler, lapidary expert, spoke on gems and minerals and their relation to our everyday life. Rocks of three types, and the transformation of these through heat and pressure into gem stones, The recognition of valuable jewels "hidden"in the ordinary rock. California stones were discussed. Lyle Winkler announced that starting a Junior Mineral Society would be of benefit to the youth of the area, and be a most rewarding activity.

The Kiwanis Club members will assist in the Women's Club Home and Garden Tour, donating their help from the Valley Swimming Pool effort. A note from the Girl Scouts indicated that there was need for funds to help send needy girls to camp this year, individual contributions may be sent to the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scout Council, Monterey.

The highlight of the meeting was a film on duck and geese hunting in Canada and the USA showing the methods of hunting and retrieving.

PICTURED ABOVE are Joe Recuipero of Giuseppe's Work Bench presenting the first monthly prize to Kathy Brewer of Tularcitos School. Kathy wrote the winning entry for the First Youth Writers Contest for February, for which she received a lovely black pearl pendant as her prize. Kathy is no stranger to the Arts, for she has appeared in many plays, and Operettas in the East, and writes a great deal. The most recent offering that was "produced" was her Christmas play that her class did at the holiday season. Cmdr. and Mrs. Brewer have two other children, one is Kathy's twin brother, and an older sister. They reside in Robles del Rio.

Golf Course, Resort and 1,000 Homes for Holt Ranch

County planning commissioners warily agreed yesterday they liked the ideas described for the proposed country club type subdivision planned for the Holt ranch in Carmel Valley.

The commission instructed its staff to meet with the developers of the subdivision and work out details for a tentative subdivision map. The development would be about six miles up the Valley, behind the Farm Center.

The 2,100 acre subdivision will be developed by Golf Course Engineers of San Francisco. The development will feature an 18-hole championship golf course, a resort hotel, community apartments, riding stables and 1,100 homes. Plans for an airstrp have been abandoned as "impractical."

Rober C. Clark of San Francisco, one of the developers, declined to set a price yesterday on the total cost of the project, but said the utilities alone would run "three or four million."

Clark said the 1,000 homes would be placed on about 700 acres of the land. Lots would be from one-half acre to four acres. The Valley is zoned for one-acre minimum building sites, but total greenbelt areas may be figured in and counts toward lot sizes.

Clark said approximately 1,150 acres will be put into greenbelt areas. These will be mostly steep canyons, where it is impossible to build. Clark said the canyons would make good camping and hiking areas.

Commissioner Don Colgrove of Pajaro objected to the developers donating the greenbelt land to the county.

"This takes the land off the tax rolls, and puts the county under obligation for policing and maintaining it," he said.

Colgrove suggested that the lot owners form a corporation which would be responsible for the greenbelts. Also suggested was a county service area, which would administer the greenbelt land.

SCOOL SITES

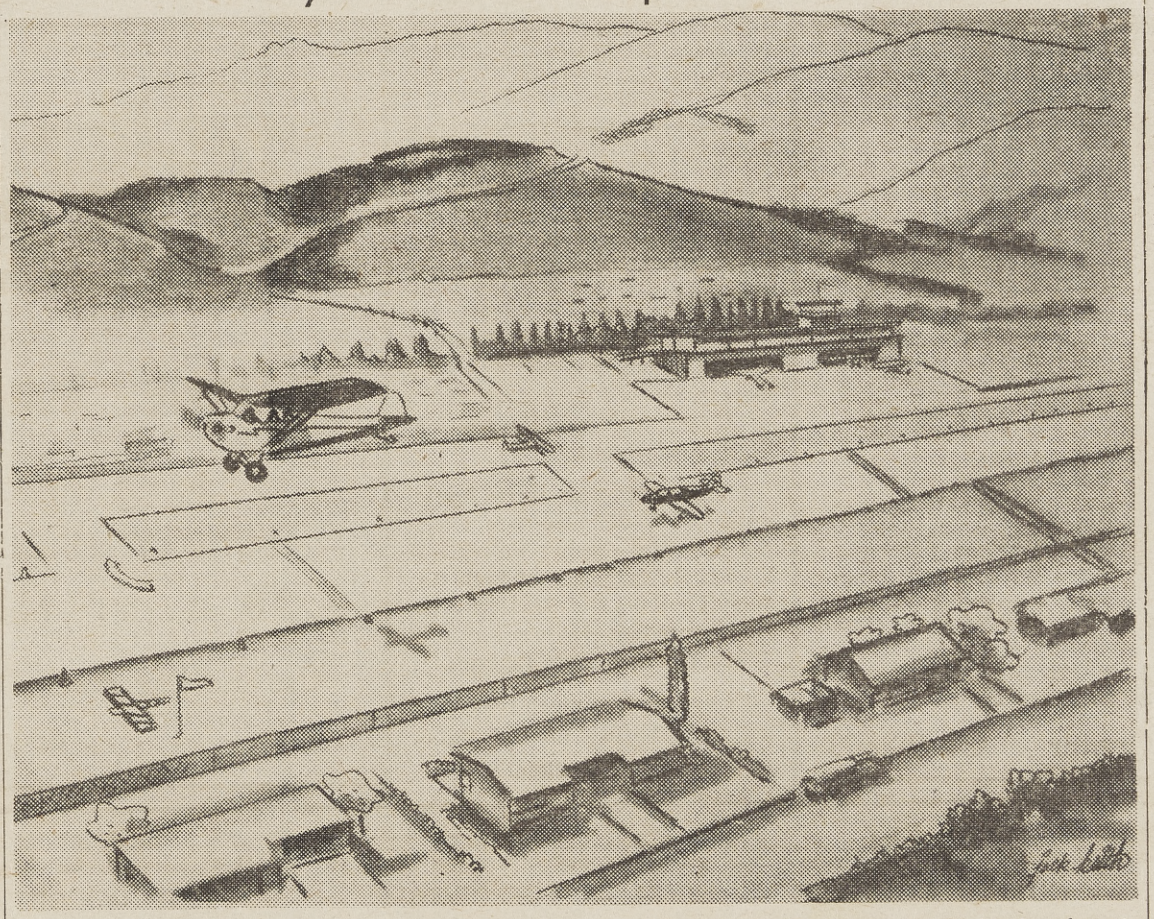
The developers yesterday said they were also setting aside 30 acres of land which would be used for future school sites, School officials estimate a junior high and an elementary school would be needed to handle about 700 more children.

Clark said the airstrip is being deleted from the plans because the approach would be directly over the schools.

The golf course would be of championship caliber, Clark said, and would be either private or semi-private.

Planning Director Ed DeMars said after hearing the details of the plan that he thought the total concept was "desirable." DeMars said he thought the developers would be able to preserve the rural atmosphere of the area.

Flyers Make Airport Plans



THE ARTISTS RENDERING shown above will show you just how the airport may look in the near future. Artist Jack Keith represents the plan to include field lights, for night flying, a hangar. Taxi areas, in fact everything that a small air strip needs to encourage use of this present facility. Renewed interest in the airport will give a shot in the arm to the Del Fino property. A recent meeting at Kelly's Restaurant got the project off to a good start for there are many Valleyites interested in this sport.

C. V. PROPERTY OWNERS BOARD MEETS MARCH 21

The Board of Directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association will meet on Monday evening, March 21, at 8:15 at the Community Center. Dr. Grant Fletcher, president, will preside.

There will be progress reports from the zoning and planning committee, Mr. W. E. Ricker, chairman, and the steering committee on the Parks and Recreation District, Mrs. Lester Borchers, chairman.

GEM SOCIETY MEETING

A revised constitution will be presented at a 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society Friday at Tularcitos School. The constitution will be voted on April 8.

Roy Chapman Andrews . . .

World Famous Explorer Final Rites Held Monday for

Roy Chapman Andrews, of Carmel Valley, famed explorer and former director of the American Museau of Natural History, died last evening in a local hospital, following a heart attack.

Mr. Andrews had been hospitalized for a cardiac condition some weeks ago, but was apparently making good recovery at his Carmel Valley home until Thursday night. He was taken back to the hospital and succumbed at 6:45 p.m. He was 76.

Eminently distinguished in his field of natural science, Dr. Andrews had spent much of his long career exploring uncharted wilderness and bringing back vital knowledge of man's pre-historic past.

He was director of New York's Museum of Natural History until his retirement Jan. 1, 1942. He was also author of countless articles and more than 20 books and was a sought-after lecturer in every section of the country.

Dr. Andrews was born Jan. 26, 1884, in Beloit, Wis. He was graduated from Beloit College in 1906 and went to New York to join the museum's staff. In 1913 he received his master's degree at Columbia University.

He was author of many books, including "Whale Hunting with Gun and Camera," "Across Mongolian Plains," "On the Trail of Ancient Man," "The New Conquest of Central Asia," and others.

Dr. Andrews and his wife, the former Wilhelmina Christmas, visited Carmel first in January, 1950, returning for a second visit in March, 1954, when they "discovered" Carmel Valley and determined to make their permanent home there on Live Oak lane. The distinquished scientist - explorer has since lived quietly in semi-retirement.

In addition to his wife, he leaves two sons by a former marriage, George Borup Andrews of Sherman, Tex., and Roy Kevin Andrews of Athens, Greece; and four grandchildren.

The death of Roy Chapman Andrews was another reminder of how many people, world famous in their fields, we have living in Carmel Valley.

Tea & Crumpets

The first days of SPRING activity find all the Valleyites out doing errands all over the Peninsula, in fact the best way to find anyone these days, is to make a quick trip through Carmel or Monterey.

Ex-Valleyite Art and Mrs. Himmah are busy, busy in their Realty office in Carmel where a brief chat disclosed how full life is for them these days, yet there is still time to miss the Valley Sunshine, and their numerous friends.

Marie Frumkin seen running around Monterey in her New, Old wagon with the great big yellow disk of the Ranch painted on the side of it. All the Resort facilities are in the MAD throes of sprucing up, and getting set for the record crop of tourists this year.

Saw Min and Arnold Bradley at the John Lamb party last week, and the sale of the Country Club hasn't effected the rush to DO LOTS OF WONDERFUL THINGS THIS SEASON WITH Rancho Del Monte. Arnold has been hard at it with paint brush, and new ideas for the members to have fun.

The mystery of the disappearing signs is cleared up, at least in one CASE!!! The Barbara Alexander sign disappeared from its attractive setting last week, and the blank space was noticed . . . Vandals???? Not at all, for there is another sign in its place, all fresh and new. It says that the JOHNSONS LIVE HERE!! No Barbara didn't sell the house, she changed her name . . . Our very best to the new couple . . .

Rumors about the METZ property are flying thick and fast, and truth has come out in part to some degree . . . No wonder the Deal was SOOOOOOOOO HUSH HUSH!!!!!! The principals don't want to be quoted, or even mentioned . . .

Mr. and Mrs. George Vargas are once again Valley residents, as George will resume his work at the Russell Ranch. The Vargas are back after being away for one and a half years, however, their Heart must be right here, for they can claim 35 years of residency.

Frances Andrews of the Valley is caught up in her plans for a trip to Europe this summer . . . She probably will see lots of our Globe Hopping Valleyites there, as travel is on the minds of nearly everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Land of Seattle, Wash. and Mr. and Mrs. George Sanford were entertained at dinner with the Egnors, 106 Ford Road recently.

The Lands, who were houseguests of the Egnors, were shown the beautiful Carmel Valley and historical landmarks of both San Juan Bautista and Monterey before proceding farther south to Morro Bay and Santa Barbara.

They were very much impressed with the beauty of the Valley and its wonderful cilmate.

Lu Canfield Retires After 16 Years Service

Mrs. Lu Canfied announced her retirement as clerk of the Monterey Muncipal Court.

She has been clerk of the court for almost 16 years — from the first day that she went to work for Judge Ray Baugh and the court staff was a "one-girl operation." Today the chief clerk is aided by 12 deputies.

Mrs. Canfield is quitting because of ill health. The retirement will be effective April 15. No successor has been named.

JUDGE'S COMMENT

Commenting on Mrs. Canfield's retirement, Judge Baugh said:

"She has been a very fine and loyal employee all these years. She has been well-informed on all matters and a good administrator. All of us are very sorry that her health has made it necessary for her to retire."

Mrs. Canfield and her husband, Capt. Ed Canfield, head of the civil division of the Monterey County Sheriff's Office, live in Rancho Rio Vista near the entrance to Carmel Valley. With them are two cocker spaniels,— "Windy" and "Mr. Buff."

On retirement, Mrs. Canfield hopes to take a trip to Hawaii and afterwards to spend "lots of time at home and at our place near Jamesburg which I love very much."

Joe Hitchcock writes....

It is strange that in our beautiful Valley we have a place of comparisons after living in other towns and counties.

Some years ago when I lived in Oakland I met a man who was a neighbor of mine and as we sat on the steps our conversation drifted to our school days. I mentioned our Supertendent of Schools, Job Wood. He said, "He was our superintendent when I went to school in Bradley." Some years later I had some neighbors in Oakland that lived in Salinas when I worked there in 1889, then they moved to San Jose and were living there when I worked there in 1910. and again they lived in San Francisco in 1916, but I never met them until 1924 when they moved into our neighborhood.

From 1918 to 1920 when I worked for the King Coal Co. on the Oakland waterfront I saw many captains of the Alaska Packers Square Rigged Steel Star Fleet, also the Red Stack Tugboat Co. and the Crowley Launch and Tugboat Co., but it had to be Carmel Valley where I really met Capt. C. F. Phipps, who was captain on the Red Stack Sea Rover and was towing the old Wellington with 800 tons of coal when the hauser parted and I was adrift on San Francisco bay, and who lives in Pacific Grove and also has a home here near me in the Valley.

Again, it has been my good fortune to be privileged to write alongside Mr. Don Lynch and his wife, who also live in the Valley. It is strange that after all these years we rode the ranges in different parts of Monterey County, we never met before. It was through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ingraham that I am permitted to write about our growing-up horseback days which we can discuss either in English or Spanish about the many Paisanos that taught us to talk horse and cow language. Even with my 70 years of horseback riding, I still do not know all the answers, but I am still trying and perhaps I can learn more.

It seems that all my years in meeting people, all the best of them as well as myself, our lives have been lived in parallels and while we were not aware of it we finally met and can enjoy our many experiences, be it sleeping with your saddle for a pillow or perhaps in someone's hay mow. Many of our teachers were Paisanos who could not read or write but they were always glad to teach the many wrinkles as riders or braiding riatas, bridle reins, bosales or hair ropes and hair cinches. They were experts in curing cinch ring or kidney sores on the faithful horses that they rode.

That is all history now but it has been a privilege to have known these pioneers, to be taught by them and in our small way help them, also.

Plant Now For Summer Color In Your Garden

Many summer flowering plants may be started or set out now.

Annuals as Stocks, Sweet Alyssum, Cinerarias, Ageratum, Bachelor Buttons, Pinks, (these last two are purported to be deer resistant) should be planted now for color this spring and summer.

Perennials as the English Primrose and Delphinium will bloom well this spring if put in now. The perennial yellow alyssum is a fine plant for poor soil or rock gardens; Marguerites give a quick show and can be purchased from flats now.

Start your tuberose rooted Begonias. The old tubers should be cleaned off and placed on top of a flat of peat moss or a mixture of sand and peat or soil and peat. Bury about two-thirds of the bulb, leaving the hollow shaped top exposed. Later these round plants can be shifted to pots or the open ground. Tuberose Begonias require a light soil with a liberal amount of humus mixed in, as leafmold or peatmoss.

This is a good time to visit your local nurseries to get ideas for early spring color. Many of the flowering trees are blooming, especially the plums. Flowering plums come in shades from pure white (Prunus pissardi) to light pink (Prunus Vesuvius) to double pink (Prunus bleiriana). The leaves on each of these vary from bronzy-green to a rich dark purple, the darkest leafed one being Prunus "Thundercloud."

Right after the plums finish, the flowering Crab Apples, which take less room than many of the other ornamental trees, begin to show color. After the Crabapples the Japanese Cherries begin to bloom. For the less seen ornamental flowering trees, there are the Hawthornes which come in single and double varieties and usually have attractive fruits. The striking red flowers of the hybrid Horsechestnut (Aesculus carnea "Brioti") are worth having, especially if you are looking for a slow-growing tree, for a limited area. The Laburnum, which is little seen in this area, has long chains of Wisteria-like yellow flowers. This tree when used in association with blue flowers as the Batchelor Button is very effective.

Most of your early-flowering fruit trees as the Plums, Crabapples, Peaches, Cherries, etc., form their flower buds from hardened wood in the fall; therefore, pruning should be done right after they bloom so that they may grow new wood and produce more blossoms for the coming year. Late summer or winter pruning only robs you of next spring's blossoms.

These trees can be very useful for winter decoration indoors as they can usually be cut and forced into bloom during the dull winter months.

Wild Pigs of Carmel Valley

After reading (Letters to the Editor) in the March 3rd issue of The Carmel Valley Sun. There was a letter from; C. H. W. Nason about the origin of the wild boar in the Santa Lucia Range. I too became interested, instead of writing letters, I saw people.

Since I have been living in Carmel Valley, I have heard many stories of the wild hogs which have multiplied until they have become a nuisance, also extended their range and can be found from Palo Corona, because "Pigs is Pigs" in anybody's language.

I have never seen one alive, though, last fall, one wallowed, during the night, where my water trough runs over, not 20 feet from the kitchen door. I have eaten some of the meat, which my friends have given me. It doesn't taste like our domestic pork, it has a flavor all its own, and it is good.

I found the man who received the hogs and turned them loose when they arrived in California.

Here is Russ Kendall's story (I know it is authentic as I have known Russ for nearly 40 years);

" I was working as a cowboy on the San Carlos Ranch in 1925. Mr. George Gordon Moore was the owner and Henry Dunn the manager — both fine men and it was a pleasure to work for them.

"It was the early part of December 1925. Mr. Moore met me at the barn, where I was saddling a young horse, which he had hopes of playing polo on, when I said 'She is ready'." He said to

Senior Play April 8 Features "The Bat"

A group of enthusiastic parents, many of whom have experience in little theatre work, met with Mrs. James Mackey, eighth grade teacher, to apportion the tasks necessary to produce the senior play, "The Bat." A Mary Roberts Rinehart mystery, it is to be presented April 8 in the multipurpose room of the school.

Supplying a professional touch, for he studied at the Pasadena Playhouse for a number of years, Mr. John Gomis will be in charge of sound effects. He and Mrs. Mike Antoncich will make-up the young thespians. Professor Paul Cooper will be in charge of lighting. Building the stage, Cmdr. James May, Mr. Joe Murphy and Lt. Cmdr. C. E. Dechow. Tickets, Mrs. Grant Fletcher and Mrs. William Klech. Publicity, Mrs. Paul Cooper. Refreshments, Mrs. Jose May and Mr. Frank O'Neal. Properties, Mrs. Louis Gardner. Assisting Mrs. Mackey in coaching, Mrs. Alex Drachenfels and Mrs. Mike Antoncich.

First and foremost, the senior play is by and for the eighth grade students who are "falling to" with great energy and are working in these capacities:

Make-up—Kathy Welborn, Nadine Carver, Martha Roberts, Liz Toy and Rondi Ayres.

Stage Crew — Ted de Bord, Keith Jones, Michael Hohler, Charles Flammini, Roger Pallestrini and Tommy Dickens.

Building the Stage — Keith Jones and Claude Dechow.

Curtain Pullers — Jack Lingenfelter and Tom Becker.

Publicity — Kathy Wellborn, Nadine Carver, Kathy Graham, Diana Edgmon, Charlotte Moore and Susan Simmons.

Ticket Selling — Jack Lingenfelter, Dick Cartwright, Barbara Simpson, Rochelle Valnizza, Rondi Ayres, Susan Saulsbury, Dennis Clark, Charlotte Moore.

Sound Effects — Maria Gomis and Tom Taylor.

Lighting — Tom Loesel, Alma Wilmot, Beth Augustitus and Roger Willis.

Properties — Roger Pallestrini, Susan Saulsbury, Rondi Ayres and Dennis Spriggs.

Usherettes — Suzanne Ganzel, Sherrie May, Susan Simmons, Helen Hoisington, Cheryl Kastor and Joan Dickens.

Mopping Up Crew — Suzanne Ganzel, Cheryl Kastor and Sherrie May.

Anyone desiring tickets may telephone any member of the ticket committee. All tickets are $1.00. All proceeds will go to buy reference books for the school.

Sam Smith Adds KTEE To Rancho

The 1410 spot on your radio dial will be known as station KRML beginning Tuesday.

The license of the station, formerly KTEE, has been acquired by the Carmel Broadcasting Co. from Seaside Electronics. Its general manager and president is Sam Smith.

Station manager Alan Skuba said KRML, its name chosen to harmonize with its location near Carmel, will "thoroughly employ a good music format" and will continue current programs of classical music.

KRML's office and facilities will be in Smith's Carmel Rancho shopping center near the Carmel Valley mouth where construction, Smith said, will begin soon, weather permitting. They will be housed in temporary quarters at the site until construction of a permanent structure is complete.

Swan's Furniture Store To Open Saturday

Saturday, March 19, marks the opening of the new furniture store in Carmel Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Swan of Marquard Rd. are the owners and Mrs. Pat Swan will be the manager.

Many of the most famous brand names in the furniture business will be represented in their Valley store.

The Swan's are by no means newcomers to this business, Mr. Swan having been raised in the furniture business. His parents owned one of the largest stores in Independence, Iowa, from 1881, and when Clark Swan took over after his father's death, the store was not only well-known for service, but won national acclaim for its' taste and excellence. Mrs. Swan joined her husband 14 years ago in the venture, which they managed 'til it was sold.

The Swan's new venture is keyed to the relaxed atmosphere of our way of life, stressing variety, low price range and good values.

Swan's furniture store will accept trade-ins and in the near future will announce the opening of their used furniture store at another location.

Pat Swan, who is well-known to many Valleyites through her S.O.S. office service will be on hand to help you with your decorating and planning ideas, while still maintaining her office service at the same address.

Opening date is Saturday, March 19, refreshments will be served.

SATURDAY CEREMONY

Carmel Valley Setting for Eade-Bonfantini Nuptials

Miss Elsie Helen Eade was escorted to the altar of Carmel Valley Community Chapel Saturday by her father to exchange wedding vows with Mr. William Bonfantini. For the double-ring ceremony the church was decorated with white peach blossoms, stock and carnations in tall baskets at either side of the altar and matching bouquets in low vases on the altar. The Rev. Don Johnson officiated at the rite and W. Park was organist.

Attired in a ballerina-length gown of white lace over taffeta with full skirt, the bride wore a short veil which fell from a headband just over her forehead and was trimmed with scattered pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis and her Nurse's Bible which she received when she was capped.

Following the vow exchange the newlyweds were honored at a reception given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Malek, the bride's uncle and aunt, in Carmel Valley. A three tiered wedding cake was served with refreshments to immediate family members who were guests at the wedding. Assisting with the serving were Miss Linda Pond, the bride's cousin, Mrs. Gail Petty. Refreshments were served buffet style in the living room and on the terrace. Bouquets of white stock and carnations were decoratively arranged throughout the home.

The bride is the daughter of the Harold Eades of Lewis Creek. She was graduated from the local high school and from St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, San Francisco. She has been head nurse of the geriatrics ward in San Luis Obispo County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bonfantini of Oakdale are the parents of the groom. He attended Oakdale High School and Cal Poly. At present he is engaged in ranching.

LEON MARKHAM and Manford Meyers, officers of the Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society are shown whoopin' it up at the recent spaghetti dinner the club held. Interest in the club runs high and all the activities are well-attended. The dinner was a big success as was that "old tyme" flavor of the event. (Photo by E. M. Graham)

ROCKHOUNDING

With LYLE WINKLER

The mark of an amateur rockhound is that he can, and usually does, give a name to any stone he may see. A trained mineralogist, on the other hand, withholds naming any of the varieties of stone until sufficient tests have been conducted to assure no misleading information or names are given out that could possibly further confuse the beginning rockhound who has trouble enough remembering names of stones already identified to him. Tests for certain minerals may be done in the field, while other minerals require extensive laboratory facilities not normally available to the average person. To those of you who are desirous of knowing what stones you may have, the State Division of Mines, Ferry Building, San Francisco 11, ATTN: Laboratory, will accept and identify up to two minerals per month. Samples sent should be at least 2x3x5 inches, accompanied by letter stating where the sample was located and what information is desired, with postage for return of sample if desired. The Division of Mines also publishes monthly a very informative Mineral Information Service, of which my good friend, Dr. Purple, Geologist, Archaeological Explorer, Efficiency Engineer, Member of the American Ass'n. for the Advancement of Science, etc., is an advocate. Subscriptions for this Service at $1.00 per year, January through December, should be sent to the Division of Mines, Ferry Building, San Francisco 11, Calif.

At this point, I would like to mention that anyone with questions relative to rockhounding, minerology or the lapidary are invited to forward their questions to the Carmel Valley Sun, ATTN: Rockhounds, for subsequent publication.

Sir Hillary To Seek The Snowman

Sir Edmund Hillary, the New Zealander who conquered Mt. Everest, will return to the Himalayas with an expedition to test high altitude survival by climbing 27,790 foot Mount Makalu without oxygen.

He will accomplish this by a gradual ascent of the mountain which he believes will acclimatize the group during the treacherous four-month Himalayan winter.

The expedition will also conduct a carefully planned hunt for the Abominable Snowman. Native reports and frequent evidence of footprints indicate that the creature inhabits the Mt. Makalu area. As the expedition ascends the mountain, Hillary will establish look-out posts which will gradually be moved higher as the winter progresses. According to the New Zealander, this will be one of the most thorough and prolonged searches ever attempted.

Resort Sold . . .

Arnold Bradley Sells Rancho Del Monte to Ashton Stanley

The Rancho Del Monte Country Club in Carmel Valley has been purchased by Ashton A. Stanley, managing lessee of the La Playa Hotel in Carmel, from present owner Arnold Bradley for an amount in excess of $200,000.

The club will continue to operate under the direction of Bradley for the current season that begins on April 1 and extends through Nov. 1. Stanley will take possession of Rancho Del Monte at the close of the season.

The seven-acre property consists of a clubhouse building, which has kitchen, bar, dining and dressing room facilities, banquet building; 75-foot heated pool; tennis courts, and accommodations for 50 guests.

The name will be retained by its new owner. Club membership will be on an invitation basis with guests of the La Playa Hotel having the use of the Rancho Del Monte Country Club.

Stanley, who has managed the Los Angeles Amabassador and the Hotel del Coronado, plans property improvements in excess of $100,000. These will include the construction of addition accommodations and redecoration of present facilities.

Upon the announcement of the transaction, Stanley stated, "I have infinite confidence in the future of Carmel Valley, its development and business potential. I feel that by operating the Rancho Del Monte Country Club on a very high level the establishment will add credit and distinction not only to the Valley but to the Monterey Peninsula as well. It is my objective to have the finest club of its kind on the Monterey Peninsula."

Sadie Hawkins Invades Valley April 8, 1960

Bing doin's for the gals when the Chamber of Commerce holds its annual dinner and cocktail party, come April 8 at 8:00 p.m.

Rancho del Monte is the setting for one of the gayest FUN affairs of the season. Everyone is urged to come Dog Patch Style, for the Quadrennial Sadie Hawkins Dance will follow the dinner of prime rib, or lobster thermidore.

Reservations should be placed well in advance of the date, for the seating is limited to a certain number, and you would not want to miss it for the WORLD. Tickets are $4.50 per person, and the cocktail hour starts at 6:30, Friday, April 8, 1960.

CHARLES TEAGUE

Your Congressman Reports

FROM THE OFFICE OF CONGRESSMAN CHARLES M. TEAGUE OF CALIFORNIA

WHO DETERMINES OUR DEFENSE EXPENDITURES?

The controversy is raging over whether or not we are spending enough money on missiles, the space race and the armed services in general.

We should remember that this is not a one-man decision. Each year the President recommends a program to Congress. The House and the Senate must authorize and finance such a program. They may make any changes a majority of the Members of Congress consider wise.

Closed-door hearings are held which last weeks and weeks. Top military and science experts give detailed testimony. A heavy majority of the members of the committees are able, conscientious men — just as anxious as the President, or you and I, to provide a well-balanced, effective defense force. Two-thirds of these Congressmen are Democrats. They are under no obligation whatsoever to support the President from a party loyalty standpoint.

During the five years I have been in Congress, these Democrat-controlled committees apparently have agreed very substantially with the President's recommendations. They have modified some of his requests slightly but not drastically. Actually, during these five years they have reduced rather than increased the funds the President requested.

My point is that credit or blame, as the case may be, must be shared equally by the President, his military advisers, and Congress.

Furthermore, in all fairness, when the "missile gap" is brought up by critics of our present position, these facts should be borne in mind:

1. It takes many years to develop powerful, accurate missiles.

2. Russia started her development work in 1946 and got a big head start on us. In retrospect, we did not sufficiently emphasize missile research, and did very little about it, until the early fifties.

3. From 1946 to 1953 we spent more money supporting the price of peanuts than we did developing missiles.

4. This condition was as much the fault of Congress (including the Republican controlled period of 1953-54) as it was President Truman's.

me, "There are some hogs coming today, they have been shipped from Carolina, they are descendants of the wild Russian boar. The big game hunters who have killed lions in Africa and tigers in India tell me that the Russian wild boar is the most dangerous to face. So be careful Russ."

They had been shipped by Railroad Express, each one crated separately. When the pickup arrived with the pigs, I looked at the things, and as I had seen many hogs in the San Joaquin Valley, these were, to me, stilliard hogs. (A stilliard hog is one which you pick up by the ears, if he tips forward, he is thin. If he balances, he is a good feeder, but if he turns with his hind end down, he is fat.)

We packed the crates into a boxstall. There were four of them. One boar and three sows. They wouldn't weigh over 20 pounds apiece. I opened the first crate and let one out. (I have read about "Daniel in the Lion's Den" but didn't feel that lucky.) I jumped out over the half door and that pig wanted to follow me. I think he wanted meat, and I wasn't willing to give. I finally got them all uncrated and we kept them in this bostall for about two weeks, then turned them loose, far away from the ranch headquarters.

In January 1926, 12 more arrived, making 16 in all. This was the start of the wold hogs, They multiplied rapidly.

There will be more about the danger of the wild pigs in the next issue.

Carmel Valley School Offers Summer Plan

The Carmel Valley Country Day School is extending its complete facilities this summer for the first time. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cowan announced the plans to cooperate with Forest Hill School, in the academic and recreational courses. All sports will be provided for the child, and credit courses are being offered to the advanced child and the boy or girl who may want to extend his or her knowledge of a particular basic subject. Completely supervised day and boarding facilities have been arranged. A program for the pre-school child is also available. Bus service for all activities, and home transportation is naturally included. Six wonderful weeks of education and fun can be your childs with the assurance that he or she will be given the ultimate in care and proper supervision.
